New law targets promises, reality of sweepstakes

Companies often don't deliver what they say they are able to

By U.S. Sen. Dick Durbin

Several months ago, I wrote about bipartisan legislation I introduced with two of my U.S. Senate colleagues to crack down on deceptive tactics by sweepstakes companies. I am pleased to announce that U.S. President Bill Clinton signed the legislation into law in early December.

During the holidays and through the beginning of the New Year, the number of solicitations we receive seems to increase. And while many companies have used sweepstakes responsibly, others have bilked consumers out of millions of dollars by falsely suggesting a purchase is necessary to qualify for the sweepstakes or to increase the odds of winning a prize. Some of these operators promise fame and fortune, but they deliver false hope and fraud.

The new law prohibits sweepstakes companies from telling mailing recipients that they are a winner unless they really have won a prize.

The U.S. Postal Service must develop and issue rules that restricts the use of misleading language. No longer will envelopes proclaim "You're our next million-dollar winner!" if you aren't or "You've already won $5 million!" if you haven't.

The mailings also must clearly and conspicuously say that no purchase is necessary to enter a sweepstakes and that making a purchase will not improve the chances of winning.

Furthermore, the law gives the Postal Service subpoena power and the ability to impose tougher civil penalties on companies that do not comply with the new guidelines. Companies sending sweepstakes and skill contests also are required to set up a notification system for consumers to call or write to have their names removed from the mailing list.

Information on how to request name removal would have to be included in every mailing sent out by the company.

The company then would have 60 days to remove the name from its lists.

It is my hope these new guidelines will cut down on the misinformation many Americans get from these mailings.

Over the past year, I have heard from several Illinois residents about their experiences in dealing with deceptive tactics used by many companies to lure people into thinking that if they buy a product or subscribe to a magazine, they will somehow increase their chances of winning a prize.

Recently, one Illinoisan related how her elderly mother has become hooked on sweepstakes. She shared with me a bulky stack of envelopes, representing just a sample of the mailings.

She remarked how her mother is convinced the company will think better of her if she orders lots of merchandise, and that buying more products will accord her special consideration and improve her chances to win a lucrative prize.

She said some of the companies, by using clever typefaces, sophisticated and official-looking symbols, gimmicky labels and personalization, lead people to believe the company is writing to them personally and their odds of winning are high.

Another Illinois resident was so convinced he won that he enclosed a hand-drawn map with his entry to make it easier for the prize presenters to find his rural home.

I also heard other horror stories from around the nation at a congressional hearing earlier this year.

One woman testified her 82-year-old father-in-law purchased 32 subscriptions to the same magazine extending until 2013 because he believed he was nearing the grand prize.

Other family members told us of loved ones who were so convinced they had won a sweepstakes they refused to leave their home for fear they would miss the Prize Patrol.

Sadly, our elderly are particularly vulnerable to sweepstakes fraud.

A survey commissioned by the American Association of Retired People showed that 40 percent of seniors asked believe there is a connection between purchasing and winning.

These experiences that have depleted the life savings of the unsuspecting and created rifts among loving family members are why it is so important to strengthen the laws to help stop these practices.

It is time for the deception to end. This law will help us move toward that goal.

Consumers who think they have been a victim of a deceptive sweepstakes practice should contact their local postmaster, or call the toll-free postal crime hotline at (800) 654-8896 or the National Fraud Information Center Hotline at (800) 876-7060.

Illinois has come a long way in 3 years

By Ed Wojcicki

In 1996, Professor Kent Redfield described Illinois as "the wild west" because of the ways politicians raised and spent campaign funds. Redfield is a political scientist at the University of Illinois at Springfield and the state's leading scholar on campaign finance issues.

His research has uncovered plenty of bizarre occurrences. One state senator spent $300 from his campaign fund to pay for parking tickets.

Another legislator who had retired to Florida, used leftover campaign funds to buy a Cadillac from a Florida dealership - hardly the kind of expenditures a citizen might have expected when writing a $25 check to a candidate's campaign.

But while candidates and big contributors played a high-stakes game with few rules, Illinois citizens had to jump through ridiculous legal hoops to get campaign finance records about the candidates who wanted to represent them.

So citizens relied mostly on the media and vigilant professors like Redfield to get information.

Now there is one identifiable mark of progress. Illinois has just been recognized as number one in the nation in making campaign finance information easily accessible to citizens by creating and electronic records and providing timely Internet access to Illinois politicians' campaign finance reports. It's an amazing accomplishment.

In 1996, Illinois was the least of the regulated of all states. Not only could candidates spend freely, but Illinois also has no limitations on who could contribute to campaigns or how much any individual, group or corporation could give at any time.

So a few well-organized groups tended to dominate the giving in Illinois, and they still do. The unregulated system also allowed groups with money to become big players quickly.

Gambling interests, for example, have made a meteoric rise in contributions in recent years. "Access to government is for sale in Illinois," former U.S. Sen. Paul Simon often said.

Faced with an increasing public pressure regarding campaign finance practices, the Illinois legislature passed a series of moderate campaign finance reforms in 1997 and 1998.

One reform bans the personal use of campaign money. Another requires political candidates who raised or spent $25,000 in the previous six months to file their reports electronically - which makes it much easier for the State Board of Elections to process them.

Another reform gave the elections board a mandate to make all campaign finance records freely available on the Internet. The elections board welcomed the challenge and went to work.

The elections board also unveiled what director Ron Michaelson describes as a "state-of-the-art campaign disclosure web site that provides up-to-the-minute campaign reports on the Internet."

For these efforts, the California Voter Foundation gave Illinois the Digital Sunlight Award after conducting a national survey.

"Illinois has come a long way in a short time," the California nonprofit group wrote in December. "Today, Illinois ranks number one for its digital disclosure efforts. (The web site) is very comprehensive and includes information on all state and local races with a high level of detail. It should serve as model for other states."

Want to know where your legislator received his or her campaign money from or who some of the big contributors are? Just go to www.elections.state.il.us and click on campaign disclosure and search for the candidate or contributor of your choice.

I did, and found out within a minute that one political insider I know had contributed thousands of dollars to one statewide official in the past two years. The site is that easy to use. Even more information will be available after next filing deadline, which is Jan. 31. If you can't find the campaign finance information you want on this official state site, you can't find the campaign finance information you want on any other site.

A drawback to the new laws adopted in 1997 and 1998 is that they did not solve the problems associated with the dominance of large contributors or control over the money by the four legislative leaders.

In fairness though, addressing those issues is a monumental task and nobody really knows what the perfect system would look like.

But when it comes to disclosure, which everybody agreed would be the foundation of all reforms, Illinois has made tremendous progress.

The elections board and Michaelson's staff deserve a lot of credit for developing a user-friendly web site so that citizens now have more timely access to information about campaign finances in Illinois elections.

parcels owned by five people - was annexed into Pontoon Beach several years ago when Tristar and the Southwestern Illinois Development Authority attempted to use quick-take eminent domain to purchase the property.

That is now tied up in court awaiting an Illinois Supreme Court decision on a similar case in Madison.

During public comment on the TIF, Stan Erb said that when they came into the city, they were promised quick-take would not be used against them.

He said several times that although the Erbs feel a TIF district would be good for the area, they wanted to develop the property - including frontage along Illinois 111 - themselves.

Tri-Star president Mike Towerman countered by saying that developing the area had problems that could only be addressed by having a large-scale plan. He specifically cited stormwater control and improvements such as roads.

As he talked, Towerman made several references to some of Erb's statements, saying "a qualified land developer would know that."

Other comments included real estate broker Vance Luksetich of Highland and a representative for Larry Manns, who owns property on the west side of Illinois 111.

Luksetich said a company was interested in putting a truck/fuel business in the TIF.

Manns' representative questioned why the Manns property, about 25 acres on the old Bel-Air drive in site, was not included in the TIF. Manns said it was a judgment call based on their talks with developers and prospective tenants.

The Village Board must wait at least 14 days before considering the TIF district.

This would be the village's second TIF. The first included the area along Illinois 111 now occupied by several restaurants, motels, subdivisions and a bank. That TIF was the subject of a court challenge by the Granite City School District that was eventually rejected by the Illinois Supreme Court.

against the three most common forms of the flu expected that year, but there can be hundreds more that the shot does not protect against.

She also said that because it hit during the holidays, that creates other problems.

Many physicians are out of town or already have a full load of patients. But even when patients are seen, there is little that can be done except treating symptoms.

Because it is a virus, once a patient has influenza, there is no cure and the patients have to ride it out - usually 10 to 14 days.

Gauen said the best advice is still pretty much the same - rest and increase fluid intake, and keep somewhat mobile.

"Moving around and coughing is good to help keep secretions loose," she said. "Lying in bed all day and not drinking anything will not help you feel better."

She said Tylenol or ibuprofen should be taken every four to six hours to manage fever.

"Often patients think that when their fever returns after six hours that the medication is not working, you have to keep taking it as directed," she said.

She added that increasing fluids helps reduce fever.

While leaving patients miserable, the flu is not normally life threatening. But for some high-risk patients, such as those with chronic lung problems, the very young and very elderly, flu symptoms can create undue stress on them.

"We're seeing a number of (high risk) people who have developed pneumonia," she said.

Some signs to watch for include: The fever is not responding to medication over a 24 or 36 hour period, loss of consciousness, seizures, patients with chronic lung problems who can't catch their breath or feel suffocated and dehydration.

Gauen recommended that patients go through their normal doctors before coming to the emergency room, but cautioned that they would still have long waits.

tal, he was arrested for attempting to lure three schoolchildren into his vehicle while they were at a Belleville bus stop. He was wearing a police badge that later was found in his car, Levinson said.

In early 1980, he was arrested in Florida for raping a 52-year-old woman and was sentenced to five years.

In March 1984, he was arrested for raping a 28-year-old Pontoon Beach woman and was sentenced to three years in prison. He was released in February 1985.

One month after his release, he entered the home of a 34-year-old Granite City woman and raped her, then dragged her to her car, drove her to a park and raped her again. A passing police officer heard the screams and arrested McCabe at the scene.

McCabe's sentence in the last case was to have been completed Dec. 22.

Levinson diagnosed McCabe as having "paraphilia," a condition in which he cannot control his sexual urges that sometimes are manifested sadistically.

He has undergone extensive sex offender treatment and was at one time hospitalized for shock treatments.

Levinson said McCabe has been released from incarceration five times and has never gone more than seven months without being arrested again.

Warriors charge into tournament's final 4

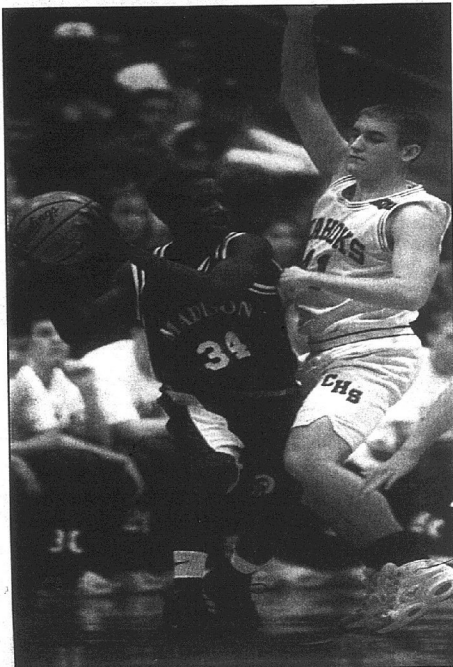

Peoria Central had the No. 2 seed heading into Wednesday's quarterfinal game at the Collinsville/Schnucks Holiday Classic.

PREP BOYS BASKETBALL Granite City had Matt

Pistorius. Pistorius scored 22 points to lead the Warriors to a 49-48 victory against Peoria Central. The 6-foot-3 senior guard scored the Warriors' final eight points, including two 3-pointers in the final four minutes of the game. Granite City advances to play today in the 1 p.m. semifinal against the winner of Wednesday afternoon's game between Belleville East and No. 3 seed Quincy.

Granite City will be making just its third semifinal appearance in the 16 years of the tournament. The Warriors' previous best finishes were third place in 1985 and fourth place in 1990. The Warriors lost consolation championship games in 1986, '91, '93 and '95. The tournament concludes this evening with the third-place game at 7 p.m. and the championship game at 7:30 p.m.

Kahoks manhandle Madison in first round

With leading scorer Terry Tessary sitting on the bench in early foul trouble, the PREP BOYS BASKETBALL boys basketball team turned to Ray Price and B.J. Bone. The senior duo led the Kahoks to a 72-44 victory in the opening round of the Collinsville/Schnucks Holiday Classic on Tuesday.

Tessary picked up two fouls in the opening quarter and his third in the opening two minutes of the second quarter. He sat on the bench for most of the first half and went scoreless.

Price and Bone came to the rescue with 20 and 17 points respectively for the Kahoks, who improved to 2-3.

"I thought this was Ray's best overall game he has played," Collinsville coach Bob Bone said. "I thought he played both ends of the floor. I thought he worked on defense and played well offensively. That was really encouraging."

"B.J. shot the ball well early and with (Tessary) in foul trouble that really helped us. I also thought Adam Embick came off the bench and gave us a lift."

Tessary finished the game with 11 points. Heading into the Kahoks' second-round game against O'Fallon, Tessary needed just seven points to crack the Kahoks top 50 all-time scorer's list.

"Having him in foul trouble changed our gameplan a lot. It was really important that B.J. hit some shots in the first half and Ray was able to score inside because when you take (Tessary) out of our offense that is a big part of our offense."

"Sometimes when you get a lead you relax a little bit and I think we did that to some degree."

Bob Bone
Collinsville coach

Bone said B.J. Bone scored 10 points in the first quarter as Collinsville took an 18-4 lead.

The Trojans, who have the shortest lineup in the event, started with the Kahoks in the second period.

Travonta Walker kept the Trojans in the contest, scoring Madison's first eight points of the second frame. His basket inside the paint cut Collinsville's lead to 23-12 early in the stanza, but Madison got no closer. Embick's bucket before the halftime buzzer restored the Kahoks 14-point lead at 34-20. Collinsville put the game away in the third period with Tessary back in the lineup. He hit a 3-pointer at 6:29 for his first points of the game.

The Kahoks' lead ballooned to 23 (45-22) with five minutes to play in the third when Nick Ditzler scored on a layup.

"We did some things better than we have been working on," Bone said. "After you have a lay-off of 10 days, sometimes it is hard to come back."

"Sometimes when you get a lead you relax a little bit and I think we did that to some degree. But on the other hand we did build a lead there in the second half."

GCHS downs Dixon in Holiday Classic opener

Granite City opened in grand fashion at the Collinsville/Schnucks Holiday Classic on PREP BOYS BASKETBALL Tuesday, winning their first-round contest with Dixon 49-30.

The Warriors came out sharp in the 9 a.m. start, jumping to a 13-7 lead after the first period and a 28-13 edge at halftime.

"It's 9 o'clock in the morning," Granite City coach John VanBuskirk said. "You never know what is going to happen at 9 o'clock in the morning with these young kids. So it is a good feeling. We didn't know anything about Dixon except that (McCoey) is their best player."

That's the only scouting report we had on them. So we are happy."

The Warriors were outscored 12-8 in the third quarter, which caused VanBuskirk some concern.

"The margin doesn't matter," VanBuskirk said. "We try real hard to win every quarter, and we work real hard at that. That's our goal. Losing the third quarter was something the kids didn't like and that is something they talk about all the time. I think that's good that they recognize it."

"Our defense got a little hungry and we thought we could steal every pass, and that's not good defense. That was the part that I didn't really care for. We

Janeek gets revenge as Warriors grab share of title

Sophomore pins loss on Edwardsville's Greenwood; Trtanj, Peach, Kirgan win titles in holiday tournament

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

Once again, Jake Janeek and Jerry Greenwood met in a decisive match.

PREP WRESTLING Janeek, a sophomore 215-pounder for the Granite City wrestling team, had dropped a match with Greenwood earlier this season in a Southwestern Conference meet with Edwardsville. That decision resulted in a rare Granite City regular-season loss.

On Tuesday, with the championship of the 39th annual William "Red" Schmitt Holiday Tournament on the line, Janeek was not going to let it happen again.

Janeek edged Greenwood with a 5-4 decision that clinched a share of the championship for the Warriors. With 201 points, Granite City and Mahomet-Seymour ended up in a tie for first place. Oakville (Mo.) finished third with 186 points.

"I thought I wrestled well," Janeek said. "He beat me the other time and I wasn't going to let it happen again. It helped to have that experience behind me."

Granite City coach Allen Kirgan said the loss in the first meeting with Greenwood gave Janeek confidence for Tuesday's pivotal encounter.

"If Jake beats him in that match, we win the meet," Granite City coach Allen Kirgan said of the dual meet. "He didn't, but it gave him confidence. Jake didn't think he could beat him the first time they wrestled, but ever since then Janeek said, 'I can beat this kid.'"

"It feels awesome," Janeek said. "It's really great."

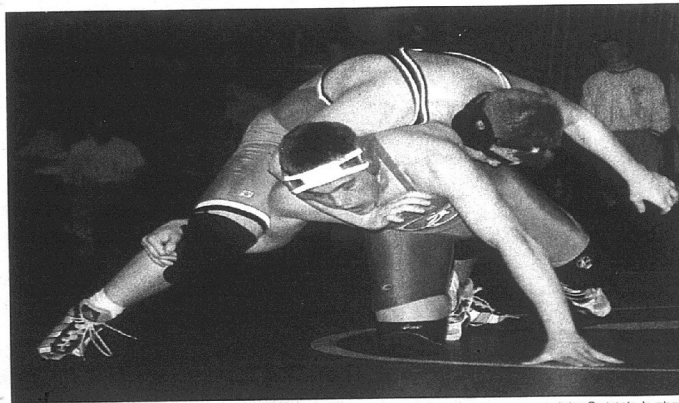

Janeek took the lead on a late takedown in the first period, but Greenwood rallied to tie. Janeek went ahead 4-2 and Greenwood again tied. But Janeek escaped in the third to take the 5-4 lead.

Greenwood went on the offensive, at one point carrying Janeek off the mat and onto the basketball court, where Janeek hit his head on the hardwood.

"I kind of blacked out," Janeek said. "It hurt. I didn't know that we were off the mat. I thought we were off to the side and I would just hit the mat."

"Jerry Greenwood is a good kid and a good athlete."

Whitaker recalls beginning of greatness in Granite City

Schmitt built foundation for success, man says

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

As the 39th Annual William "Red" Schmitt Holiday Wrestling Tournament

PREP WRESTLING came to a close Tuesday night, the mats went silent and a wise, mature face beamed from a corner of the Granite City High School gymnasium.

Walt Whitaker was by Schmitt's side as the eponymous redhead built the foundation for grappling, which remains the bedrock for sports in the Steel City.

Whitaker was Schmitt's first captain as a senior in 1961. After graduation, Whitaker wrestled at Arkansas State for Harold Nichols before Nichols moved to Iowa State and started collecting national collegiate champions.

Whitaker went into the service when the Korean War broke out, and upon his return, he wrestled at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale for Jim Wilkinson. He came to Cahokia, coaching and teaching from 1960-63. Then he returned home to Granite City.

Whitaker spent more than 10 years with Schmitt before Granite City North High School was opened in 1973.

"Coach Schmitt was probably the instigator of getting wrestling started in this area," Whitaker said. "He was one of the few guys at the time who really knew wrestling."

"Some of the people who were hired at the time to coach wrestling were really football coaches and didn't know wrestling. But Schmitt and I taught it to us. Then we just kind of passed it down from generation to generation. In the meantime, the other schools for the next few years went out and got wrestling coaches. Now they have been pretty good and improved and everyone has caught up with Granite City."

Whitaker's son Mark has followed in the footsteps and serves as the assistant coach to Allen Kirgan at Granite City High School.

"It was kind of a natural transition for him," Whitaker said. "He loved the sport when he was in school. I started him out young, at the Granite City Wrestling Club and the junior high school and high school. He just loves the sport and he likes participating with it. He likes associating with the kids. It's just a natural thing for him to do it."

Whitaker took his own important lessons from Schmitt.

"I think a lot of what I took from Schmitt had to do with sportsmanship and being a team member," Whitaker lete," Kirgan said. "He worked hard in the off-season. I don't want to take anything away from him. Janek is a sophomore and he was better today."

The Warriors were set up for Janek's heroics by three other championship performances. Steve Peach ran through the field with five pins to take the crown at 100 pounds. He beat East St. Louis' Demond Wilbourn in the finals (by fall in 3 minutes 14 seconds) after Wilbourn had eliminated Mary Kelly of Mahomet-Seymour in the semifinals. Kelly finished third, the first female high-school wrestler to place in the Holiday Tournament.

Granite City junior Jake Triant, who finished second a year ago at 112 pounds, took the title at 119 pounds. Triant beat Triad's Andy Pani in the semifinals with a pin at 3:45, then decisively Oakville's Mike Thompson 7-0 in the finals.

Warriors senior George Kirgan, who finished third in the 1998-99 IHSA Class AA individual state tournament at 160 pounds, won the Holiday Tournament title at 171 pounds when Mahomet-Seymour's Ryan Armetta defaulted. Kirgan had beaten Armetta 13-4 earlier in the tournament. "It's a tribute to the assistant coaches," Kirgan said. "Mark Whitaker, Greg Garland and Kevin Wilson do a great job working with these young kids. The feeder program and these kids' dedication and hard work and the coaches' hard work is why we were able to do this."

The Warriors return to action Jan. 7 at home against East St. Louis.

said. "The other thing we always try to instill in the kids is that wrestling is one thing in your life, but there are other things in your life that you have to do. Academics was a big thing."

"I always told my kids that if you have problems with your schoolwork, you aren't going to be able to wrestle anyway because you aren't going to be eligible. I always told them that you can't go to school and not attend class. You have to go to classes and make your grades. If you want to do anything in college that's the name of the game."

Whitaker has noticed several developments in the modern game.

"I think the main thing is that the kids today are being taught more of the kind of style of wrestling they use in college,"

Whitaker said. "When I was a kid we used just basic fundamentals."

"The kids are using more advanced moves now. Just like in every other sport, the kids are bigger and stronger than they used to be. They are getting more out of the sport. It used to be if you were a tough guy you could win. But now it's not how big and tough you are, but whether you are a smooth enough wrestler or not."

Warriors win in opening round

stole some passes early and it didn't help us. It encouraged them to go for more steals and play out of control."

Matt Pictorius led the Warriors with 17 points. Fellow senior Zack May scored 15 points and Brandon Smith punched in nine.

"Brandon got going in the fourth quarter," VanBuskirk said. "He did some nice things. I don't think our shooting percentage was very good from the 3-point line. But Zack and Matt are coaches out there. They know the game of basketball and they know what has to get done."

The Warriors beat No. 2 seed Peoria Central Wednesday afternoon in the tournament.

The tournament concludes today with semifinal and final-round action in the winners and the consolation bracket. Only winners from Wednesday's games advanced to play on Thursday.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE CHAMPIONSHIP

- After a disappointing Daytona 500—in which he was involved in an accident and placed 37th—Dale Jarrett bounced back to finish second to Mark Martin the following week at Rockingham. It was the first of six second-place finishes.
- After finishing fifth at Atlanta, fourth at Darlington, second at Texas, third at Bristol, eighth at Martinsville, second at Talladega and fifth at California, Jarrett won for the first time at Richmond on May 15 and took the Winston Cup point lead. He never gave it up.
- The second victory occurred at Michigan, the fastest 400-mile race in NASCAR history. Jarrett led laps 48 and 49, took the lead again on lap 53 and never relinquished it.
- Victory No. 3 was at Daytona, where Jarrett may have run out of fuel if not for a late caution flag.
- Jarrett became the Brickyard 400's second two-time winner, joining Jeff Gordon, on Aug. 7. He led the last 43 laps after starting fourth.
- Jarrett finished second to Dale Earnhardt in both Talladega races. Earnhardt finished second to Jarrett in the second race at Daytona.
- In Jarrett's four victories, there were four different second-place finishers: Martin at Richmond, Gordon at Michigan, Earnhardt at Daytona and Bobby Labonte at Indianapolis.
- Jarrett also finished second twice to Bobby Labonte, who finished second to him in the season standings.

 Brian Hoppe won the ReMax Challenge Series.

CHAMPIONS OF 1999

PROFILE

Jeff Green

Jeff Green placed second in the 1999 point standings for Busch Grand National.

By Monte Dutton
 NASCAR This Week
 Coming off his second-place finish in the 1999 point standings, Jeff Green figures to be a favorite for the Busch Grand National championship this year.

With champion Dale Earnhardt Jr., third-place finisher Matt Kenseth and seventh-place Dave Blaney all headed to the Winston Cup Series, much of Green's opposition seems to have been eliminated.

He will, of course, face stiff competition from two-time BGN titlist Randy LaJoie and his own brother, David, who is a former champion. Another sibling, Mark, also competes in the series.

Only Earnhardt, Mark Martin and Kenseth won more BGN events than Jeff Green, who visited victory lane three times in 1999.

 YOU WON A RACE LAST YEAR AT MYRTLE BEACH IN WHICH YOUR TEAMMATE, JASON KELLER, CUT A TIRE WITH THREE LAPS TO GO. HOW DID THAT FEEL?

"When you win, you'll take them any way you can get them. I felt bad for Jason because he was going to win the race, but the same thing has happened to me, too. I guess feeling good for myself overrode feeling bad for him."

HOW IMPORTANT IS IT FOR YOU TO GET BACK IN WINSTON CUP? "Being a part of the Winston Cup Series was the biggest challenge of my racing career, and I feel like I've proven myself as a competitor and that I belong there. It's a goal of mine to be back there at some point in the future, but I'm very comfortable in the Busch Series, too. The level of competition here is very high, and I'm really motivated right now about getting a chance to win the championship."

Who's Hot... Who's Not

■ HOT: Bobby Labonte—a popular choice for 2000 title.

■ NOT: Sale of Cale Yarborough's team falls through again.

Trackside Trivia

Letters From Our Readers

Dear NASCAR This Week,
 I'm a senior (age 74), and I've been a real race fan since 1967.

At that time we had two great racers in the Midwest, usually on dirt tracks (half-mile), named Ernie Derr and Ramo Stott. Both were from Keokuk, Iowa. I know Ramo ran some NASCAR races and did a good show, but did Ernie ever race NASCAR?

Carl E. Garmen
 Sedalia, Mo.

Ernie Derr completed in but one Winston Cup (then known as Strictly Stock or Grand National) race, in 1953. His career earnings were $25. Ramo Stott competed in a total of 35 races from 1967-77. On Aug. 6, 1972, driving for Junie Donlavey, Stott finished second to James Hylton in the Talladega 500. His career earnings were $105,090.

Dear NASCAR This Week,
 In what year were points taken away from Mark Martin? Why? Who was his crew chief? Has this ever happened before?

Pam Kaufman-Fasick
 Mount Union, Pa.

In the second race of the 1990 season, Martin's victory at Richmond was allowed to stand, but 46 points (the difference between first and 10th place) were taken away because officials found a carburetor spacer mounted on the engine's intake manifold that was half an inch thicker than the two inches allowed. Martin was also fined $40,000. The Hmiel, Dale Earnhardt ended up winning the championship over Martin by 26 points.

On occasion, NASCAR has punished other drivers by taking away all or a portion of points earned in a race. In fact, during the past season in the Craftsman Truck Series, Greg Biffle lost the championship to Jack Sprague because of a similar assessment by NASCAR.

Young at Heart holds monthly meeting

The Young at Heart Senior Citizens of Holy Family Catholic Church met recently in the church community center.

President Cleo Siebert called the meeting to order. Sister Jean Patrick led the group in prayer followed by the Pledge of Allegiance.

Donna Fisher, director of organization training and development, talked to members about the many services St. Elizabeth Medical Center offers. In January 1991, the Sisters of Divine Providence bought the Granite City hospital. Since 1991, the Sisters of Divine Providence have continued to demonstrate faith and commitment to the healing ministry at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

The medical staff has more than 150 physicians in 31 specialties. Some of the many services the hospital provides are: Diabetes support groups, food and nutrition counseling, hospice classes on grieving, skin cancer screening in the spring at no cost, prostate screening in the fall for $10, 55 Alive/Mature driving course, a Multiple Sclerosis support group, asthma classes in March and April.

Koch Family Health Center provides doctors for low-income area residents. Hospice of Madison County offers emotional and medical support for terminally ill patients. Unity Advantage provides senior services provides health testing and prescription discounts, special events and trips. The hospital had added a medical center with free brochures on a number of diseases with Internet connection for further reference.

After Donna Fisher's talk, minutes of the October meeting were read by the recording secretary Cleo Schnefke, followed by the treasurer's report by Goldie Rozycka. Corresponding secretary Louise Kovar received a thank you card from Cathy Sparks for the donation she received for the New Beginnings.

Friendship chairperson Mary Rita Ahlers sent get well cards to the following members: Cathy Wiese, Cathy Mathes, Ann Ruder, and Thelma Simmons. Membership chairperson Connie McGee reported 59 member in attendance.

Birthdays celebrated in November include: Jean Francis, Rosemary Rudy and Eleanor Vrabec.

Attendance prizes were won by Catherine Fedora, Louise Gwasdac, Eileen Reeves, Ann Konopka, Sister Jean Patrick, Pete Ferro and Marilyn Schooley.

The Terry "Bones" Allan Family Wishes You A Safe & Joyous Holiday Season

ALLAN AUCTION SERVICE & TOWNSHIP SUPERVISOR

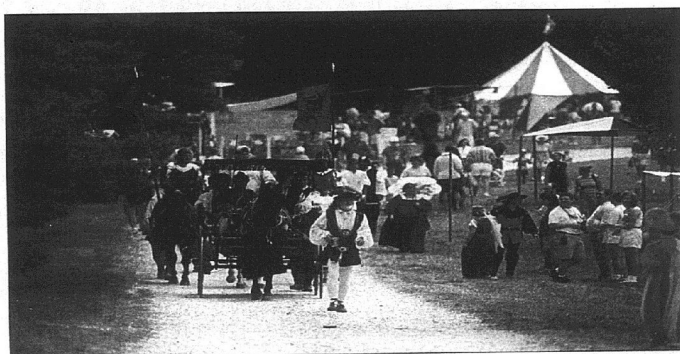

The year in pictures

Left, angry Savannah Buchanan questions the Venice School Board and former Superintendent James Doughty during a February meeting. The relationship among Doughty, members of the board and the community deteriorated through the late winter and early spring. Eventually, Doughty was fired, and retired Superintendent Robert Vickers was brought in as an interim. Below, Ryan Houston helps Granite City firefighter Sam Nesbit close a fire hydrant in front of the main fire station in August.

Above, CART driver Robbie Gordon hits the wall at turn three in lap 11 of the Motorola 300 Labor Day weekend at Gateway International Raceway in Madison. Michael Andretti was able to fend off Helio Castro-Neves for the win, his first since the previous year's season opener in Florida and his record-setting 38th career. Left, belly dancers Samira and Penny entertain on the Old Chain of Rocks Bridge during the Earth Day celebration in June. This event that brought in more than 20,000 people, served as the grand opening for the renovated bicycle and pedestrian bridge. Now closed for the season, it will be open for the annual eagle watching in late January.

BOARD GAMES GO DIGITAL

The collage features several classic board games. At the top right is the box for Candy Land, described as a 'little game for sweet little folks'. Below it is the box for The Uncle Wiggily Game, featuring a cartoon character. To the right of that is the box for Chutes and Ladders, an 'exciting UP and DOWN GAME for little people'. In the bottom left is the box for Monopoly. In the center is a wooden checkers board with black and white pieces. To the right of the checkers board are several playing cards, including a 9 of clubs, a 2 of diamonds, a 10 of diamonds, and a King of hearts. At the bottom right is a Yahtzee die showing five different faces.

AP ranks decade's best albums

In alphabetical order, the best pop albums of the decade, as voted by the music writers of The Associated Press:

Beck, "Odelay" (1996) - An ironic, postmodern pastiche that showed the Internet generation's only limits in source material is their own imagination.

Dr. Dre, "The Chronic" (1992) - The blueprint disc for gangstas, this set rap's agenda through the mid-1990s and made Death Row Records a formidable, and feared, part of the industry.

Steve Earle, "El Corazon" (1997) - The finest country-rock songwriter alive rebounded from heroin addiction and jail with an astonishing burst of creativity. This was his most wide-ranging work.

Lauryn Hill, "The Miseducation of Lauryn Hill" (1998) - Cool blend of rap and soul made this Fugee the darling of the Grammy Awards.

Los Lobos, "Kiko" (1992) - The former party band from East Los Angeles transformed themselves into edgy studio experimentalists.

Nirvana, "Nevermind" (1991) - Like "The Chronic," it steered a musical genre in a different direction, launching grunge with the burst of ennui, "Smells Like Teen Spirit."

Liz Phair, "Exile in Guyville" (1993) - An answer to a classic Rolling Stones disc, Phair talked with a sexual frankness that would make Mick and Keith blush.

Portishead, "Dummy" (1994) - You may not know Portishead, but you've heard the music - probably while shopping in a boutique. The forerunner of the electronic style known as trip-hop.

U2, "Achtung Baby" (1991) - U2 reinvented itself for the 1990s with "Achtung Baby," chronicling a night on the edge and its aftermath. Perhaps their sturdiest collection of songs.

Lucinda Williams, "Car Wheels on a Gravel Road" (1998) - It only seemed to take a decade for Williams to finish this, but her country-blues craftsmanship was worth the wait.

Board games become regular part of digital domain

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

Chances are good, if you're involved in a game of Yahtzee, Monopoly or even chess today, it may require a computer, television screen or batteries.

During the 1990s - particularly during the last decade - entertainment has kicked into high technological gear. Being amused is hard work, particularly for children.

"If it doesn't light up, dance or talk to them, my kids won't touch it," said Amy Lawler, a mother of three from Collinsville. "I mean, they make shoes that light up. How can you keep a kid interested in a game where they roll dice and push a plastic something around a board?"

Good question. Many of the games of yesteryear are hard pressed to compete with today's offerings like GameBoy and PlayStation.

It makes it hard to believe that not so long ago children could be entertained for hours with checkers, yo-yos or even a deck of cards. Maybe those past generations were a little more imaginative. Maybe they had to be.

"Families sat around the dining room table and put together elaborate jigsaw puzzles," said Floyd Sperino of Belleville.

Sperino and his wife, Betty, did some research about this century's toys and games at the Collinsville Historical Museum.

"At times, hand shadow puppets were made by young hands on the walls," Sperino said. "Funny, spooky or beautiful, there was no limit to the imagination. Often, just sitting in the dark telling ghost stories was a treat."

Decades ago, children competed in relay races that required some rather odd skills.

"You competed in teams by carrying a potato on a spoon, peas on a knife or a penny on the top of your shoe as you walked rapidly," Sperino said. "Indoor relays were just as much fun, passing an orange or apple under your chin from one teammate to another."

Outings to the theater weren't uncommon but were a special treat.

"In the 1930s, movie houses catered to young people with special matinees on Sunday afternoons," Sperino said. "Admission was 10 cents."

Theaters still cater to children. Example: The recent box office successes of movies like "Stuart Little" and "Toy Story 2." Granted, admission alone is a lot more than a dime. And, with the marketing genius of matching toy lines to movie offerings - or making movies that highlight toy lines - the expense grows even larger. After all, what self-respecting 5-year-old could go to see the Toy Story sequel without a Buzz Lightyear or Woody tucked under one arm?

Today's youngsters don't even have to go to the movies to catch the latest in youthful films. They can see them on video at home.

"I think my son has more movies than I do," said Ryan Elleman of Granite City. Elleman was in Fairview Heights recently purchasing a copy of the just released "Elmo in Grouchland" for 4-year-old Joshua.

Shows like the PBS series

"Sesame Street" or Nickelodeon's "Blue's Clues" are responsible for an entire line of games and products targeting the kindergarten and younger set.

"I like the Sesame Street stuff because while it lets the kids have fun, it's very educational," Elleman said. "Too much of this (electronic) stuff is just mindless."

Even so, for all the glitz, toy manufacturers are promoting events like Hasbro's Family Game Night that get families playing some of the old favorites. Games like Monopoly that debuted in 1934, and the word-builder Scrabble that arrived in 1948 are still popular. They just look quite different.

Monopoly has evolved into a multitude of editions that include NASCAR, Star Wars and even one to celebrate the new millennium. Getting the original board edition of Scrabble is a little tougher. You're more likely to find it on CD-ROM or in a hand-held electronic version.

Those hand-held models even include favorites from the 1950s and '60s like Candy Land and Chutes and Ladders.

It's a far cry from the games of Spin the Bottle and Cops and Robbers that Sperino recalls.

Writers pick top shows of 1999

Arriving in January, HBO's "The Sopranos" got viewers right between the eyes, while ABC's "The Practice" continued to paint lawyers as argumentative, corner-cutting -- and irresistible. Come summer, another HBO series, "Sex and the City," was back for a second sassy season.

With the fall season, five new series brought fresh new ideas with them. And, moving from public television to cable's Odyssey Network, a little show called "Donna's Day" continued to put out a powerful message about creative parenting. Meanwhile, Fox's "Ally McBeal" was more outrageous than ever.

In alphabetical order, the best of 1999:

"Ally McBeal" (Fox) -- You call THIS a law firm?!

"Donna's Day" (Odyssey Network) -- Doing things with kids, not buying things for them.

"Freaks and Geeks" (NBC) -- A comedy-drama about the kind of high school WE went to.

"Get Real" (Fox) -- A drama about three generations, one attractive family, under one roof.

"Now and Again" (CBS) -- Drama/romance/sci-fi/comedy/action-adventure - and then some.

"Once and Again" (ABC) -- A tender, adult drama about divorce and rebirth.

"The Practice" (ABC) -- You call THIS a law firm?!

"Sex and the City" (HBO) -- The singles life, singularly outrageous.

"The Sopranos" (HBO) -- A family drama. The family is the mob.

"The West Wing" (NBC) -- A workplace drama. The workplace is the White House.

Writers pick top films of 1999

From an ambitious and unscrupulous high school senior who stops at nothing to become student government president to an ambitious and unscrupulous piano player who stops at nothing to become part of the smart set, the movies of 1999 were edgy and challenging.

There was a suburban chump who had designs on his daughter's cheerleading friend, and a behemoth death row inmate with magical powers; a boxer who becomes the subject of a Bob Dylan hit after being wrongfully imprisoned for murder, and a tobacco exec who smokes out the cigarette industry on national TV.

1999 offered more excellent movies than in recent years, and any list becomes difficult in narrowing the field. But here, in alphabetical order are the 10 best movies of the year -- and those worthy of mention -- as voted by the entertainment writers of The Associated Press:

"American Beauty" -- A funny and macabre tale of suburban dementia that caustically looks at American family values.

"Being John Malkovich" -- A cinematic voyage into the brain of the actor.

"Election" -- A highly motivated - and dangerously cute - student gets under a teacher's skin and causes a real bad rash.

"Go" -- A post-slacker tale of a debauched night in Los Angeles.

"The Hurricane" -- The pounding saga of boxer Rubin "Hurricane" Carter.

"The Green Mile" -- A story of fate and cruelty, redemption and kindness, and an unexplained force that flows from the hands of a condemned man.

"The Insider" -- A whistleblower, a crusading journalist, a tobacco company and the CBS television network.

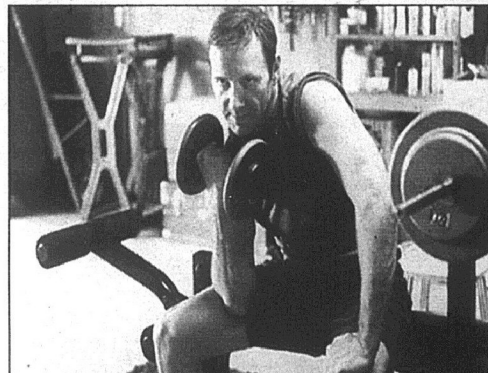

"The Sixth Sense" -- A tyke becomes therapist for the dead.

"The Talented Mr. Ripley" -- A liar turns murder into an art form.

"Topsy-Turvy" -- The often rocky collaboration between Gilbert and Sullivan, the Victorian-era pioneers of operetta.

Worthy mention:

"Angela's Ashes,"
"Boys Don't Cry,"
"Dreamlife of Angels,"
"Iron Giant,"
"The Limey,"
"Magnolia,"
"South Park: Bigger, Longer and Uncut,"
"The Straight Story,"
"Sweet and Lowdown,"
"Three Kings."

Top, Kevin Spacey plays Lester Burnham in "American Beauty." Bottom, John Malkovich plays himself in "Being John Malkovich."

AP writers pick decade's top TV, films

The top 10 TV shows of the 1990s in order of premiere date, as voted by the television writers of The Associated Press:

"Roseanne" (ABC; 88-98). Real family life with real goals: just trying to manage. This unlikely heroine was right in tune with her audience, and funny as all get-out.

"Seinfeld" (NBC; 90-98). The picayune as picaresque, and yada, yada, yada.

"Law & Order" (NBC; 90-). The perpetual motion drama machine. Or, to borrow a pair of product slogans: "The quality never varies" and, "Don't you wish everything worked this well?"

"The Simpsons" (Fox; 90-). Sharp. Shrewd. Heretical. Takes on all comers and somehow gets away with it. Oh, yeah - never less than hilarious.

"I'll Fly Away" (NBC; 91-93). Tough truths about racial conflict in a tender, hopeful show. Drama as conscience.

"The Larry Sanders Show" (HBO; 92-98). Hurtled us into the entertainment world we usually watch from a distance, and inside the head of one of its stars. What a funny, strange ride!

"Homicide: Life on the Street" (NBC; 93-99). A gorgeous mosaic of characters and, portraying them, remarkable actors - in stories that, at their most penetrating, invaded our very protocols and remain there.

"NYPD Blue" (ABC; 93-). Took heat and thrived at the beginning, and still simmers with good and evil.

"Arthur" (PBS; 96-). Sure, it's supposed to be a kid show. But who knew an aardvark and his animal pals could be so human, charming and funny - for viewers of all ages!

"The Sopranos" (HBO; 99-).

Just what the audience needed: family values.

In alphabetical order, the 10 best movies of the decade, as voted by the entertainment writers of The Associated Press: "Babe" - The wise, moving fable of a pig's coming of age.

"Fargo" - The wise, frozen fable of a kidnapping gone wrong.

"GoodFellas" - The wise, bloody fable of a gangster's rise and fall.

"L.A. Confidential" - A film noir for the '90s: dirty cops, blowy blonde, sleazy tabloids.

"Remains of the Day" - A beguiling and compassionate portrait of an English butler and the master-servant dynamic, and a study of manners and repressed love.

"Schindler's List" - A tapestry of horror, ignorance and tyranny cleansed by an enormous humanity, by a redemption extraordinary and exquisite.

"Secrets and Lies" - A movie by British filmmaker Mike Leigh that fuses the divides of race, class and age to reveal a common humanity available to all.

"Silence of the Lambs" - Jonathan Demme's gutwrencher about an FBI agent who hunts a serial killer with an assist from another serial killer makes "Psycho" look like a tea dance.

"Unforgiven" - Clint Eastwood's elegiac Western was climaxed by one of the decade's great screen showdowns, between Eastwood's bitter outlaw and the villainous lawman played by Gene Hackman.

"Vanya on 42nd Street" - Louis Malle's ingenious adaptation of Chekhov's "Uncle Vanya" is staged as a rehearsal and arranged so gracefully that you don't notice when the actors slip out of their "real" lives and into the lives of the characters.

your involvement or whether you seek attention or not. It'll be your appealing mannerism that will cause others to take notice.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
You're always an adaptable individual, but today you might be more malleable than usual to changes initiated by others. However, these alterations will end up benefiting you the most.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
If your common sense tells you today that something can be done more effectively with teammates, forego any independent tendencies you might harbor. Partners are lucky for you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
You will be rewarded in proportion to the efforts you expend today, so take pride in your tasks and assignments. Your compensation will reflect it if you truly do a good job.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
When you take charge today, it won't ruffle anybody's features. In fact, any commanding presence you take will be recognized as a plus for others, rather than a liability.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
It won't be that you'll be relegated to operating as the power behind the throne today, but because you'll choose it yourself. This is where you'll be the most comfortable.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Use your influence over your intimate friends today in ways that does the greatest good for the largest number and you'll not only be more effective than usual, but the most popular.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Devote your maximum effort today to something in which you're presently involved that could be meaningful to you financially. Your possibilities for success look extremely good.
